

a Global Learning project

establishing international learning communities

Objectives of the project

- to develop and evaluate a framework for quality Global Learning Projects between UOW campuses;
- to design, develop and implement the first Global Learning Project at UOW in a large undergraduate Commerce subject;
- to improve students' multicultural awareness and team work skills;
- to promote internationalisation of the curriculum;
- to globalise the students' academic experience through international learning communities and projects;
- to promote the use of blended learning and Global Learning Projects at the university and its partner institutions;
- to develop closer links between UOW, its campuses and partner institutions;
- to enhance the reputation of UOW as a globally connected university, and its graduates as global leaders.

Dr Joseph A Meloche
Lecturer
Faculty of Commerce
University of Wollongong
Australia
jmeloche@uow.edu.au

Dr Lejla Vrazalic
Chair, College of Business
University of Wollongong Dubai
Dubai
LejlaVrazalic@uowdubai.ac.ae

Dr Meloche and Dr Vrazalic have taught in Wollongong and Dubai and have co-authored an Information Systems workbook for students.

Vrazalic, L. & Meloche, J. A. (2005). Information Systems Workbook. (1 ed.). Australia: John Wiley & Sons Australia.

The Teaching Research Nexus is a research framework for initiating global learning across the University of Wollongong, its campuses and partner institutions.

It utilises collaborative learning activities that engage students in meaningful, real-life, team-based experiences.