

TIDE

5th edition
2008

FETISHES, TEETH, MARIONETTES & DRAGONS – these are some of the things that appear in this year’s TIDE!

TIDE, an independent literary journal, showcases the works of emerging poets, prose writers, playwrights and visual artists. It is produced annually by the third-year editing students of the University of Wollongong.

TIDE has been published since May 2004. The students work as editors, fundraisers, designers, and print officers in the space of thirteen weeks to produce the 100-page journal.

TIDE is proudly supported by the UOW Faculty of Creative Arts, design and creative writing lecturers, businesses in the Illawarra and Sutherland Shire, community members, artists and writers.

“This provides a wonderful opportunity for students to learn practical, hands-on skills in editing and publishing. They should be really proud of this latest effort,” Dr Shady Cosgrove, lecturer, said.

A launch party was held at the University of Wollongong, Faculty of Creative Arts on Friday 24th October, 2008 @ 7pm
