STURT GALLERY presents

A Sense of Place

Paintings and monoprints by Sarah Willard Gray

2 - 23 August 2009

Opening 2 August 2009, 11am, Sturt Gallery, Mittagong
by Dr Glenn Mitchell, Senior Lecturer in History, University of Wollongong

I believe that knowledge, perception and intuition relating to a certain landscape's topography, atmosphere, location and history can achieve a sense of place strong enough to impress itself upon creative work. My paintings are the evidence for this notion. Therefore the merging of the analytical aesthetics of the philosophy of art with the significance of the natural environment, history and everyday life is paramount to my research which culminates in a series of paintings and monotypes entitled 'A Sense of Place'. All the work in this exhibition is inspired by specific sites in the Southern Highlands of NSW.
