1 Purpose of Policy

1. It is in the interests of the University, its staff and affiliates and all other members of the University community to maintain the highest possible ethical standards of accuracy, honesty, cooperation, tolerance and acceptance of obligations as well as rights.

2. In adopting a University-wide conflict of interest policy, the University recognises the need to protect its reputation by maintaining ethical standards, fairness and integrity in all its dealings.

3. The objectives of this policy are to:
   a. provide a framework for identifying and resolving actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest; and
   b. articulate the University's position on conflicts of interest to staff, affiliates, students, and other members of the University Community.

A conflict of interest exists where there is a divergence between the individual interests of a staff member and their professional obligation to the University such that an independent observer might reasonably question whether the professional actions or decisions of that person are influenced by their own interests or are for their own benefit. It should be noted that enmity as well as friendship can give rise to perceptions of a conflict of interest and similarly that detriment to a third party can give rise to a conflict of interest just as much as benefit to a third party. A conflict of interest includes an actual, perceived or potential conflict of interest.

Financial Benefit

A benefit in the form of remuneration, payment or gift received by a staff member outside their ordinary remuneration. Financial benefits may include investments, ownership or directorship of any companies, consultancies, provision of goods or services, receipt of royalties or other consideration, etc.

Near Relatives

Refers to members of the immediate or extended family.

Gift

An item offered to or received by a staff member, or affiliate, in the context of their University role (not a formal gift to the University) or provided to an external party by a staff member, or affiliate, in the context of their University role, that has:

- financial value;
- physical form; or
- can be considered a favour.

The term includes but is not limited to:

- Cash
- Hospitality
- Vouchers, or similar, which can be exchanged for goods;
- Meals, Tickets to sporting or entertainment events,
- Chocolates;
- Ties, scarves or other items of clothing;
- Ornaments or ornate or precision display items (clocks, furniture, figurines, works of art and so on);
- Pens or paperweights;
- Accommodation, free travel, travel discounts or vouchers for personal use;
- Bottles/cases of alcoholic beverages; and
- Other items of enduring value (jewellery, precious metals or stones, fine art work or items containing these elements).

Gifts which have significant cultural or historical value include items from the... local region or elsewhere and may include:
   a) cultural gifts such as artworks, rare books, artefacts, antiquities, scientific specimens and instruments); and/or b) items of historic significance to the University including records (any document or source of information compiled, recorded or stored in written form or on film, or by electronic process or in any other manner or by any other means, but not State Records).

3 Application & Scope

1. This Policy applies to all staff and affiliates of the University.
2. This Policy does not apply to students except where they are also staff or affiliates of the University, and only for those duties the student performs as a staff member or affiliate.
3. This Policy does not apply to staff of controlled entities of the University of Wollongong as those organisations are expected to have their policies on this issue in place.

4 Policy Principles

1. The University Code of Conduct refers to the general standards of conduct expected of University staff and affiliates. University staff and affiliates are expected to behave in good faith and avoid actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest between their private interests and the interests of the University.
2. Staff and affiliates carrying out University activities and functions have a responsibility to declare and manage conflicts of interest as they arise.
Examples of Situations in which Conflicts of Interest May Arise

1. Without limiting the possible circumstances the following are examples of areas which may give rise to a conflict of interest:
   a. decisions regarding suppliers, customers and other persons in respect of the selection and/or ongoing dealings related to doing or seeking to do business with the University;
   b. business or close personal relationships with competitors or businesses operating in the same area as the University or one of its units;
   c. decisions regarding appointment, promotion or other personnel decisions relating to staff members;
   d. decisions and dealings with potential staff members;
   e. holding paid or unpaid directorships, executive positions, shareholdings or ownership of other companies, organisations or businesses;
   f. close personal relationships (including sexual relationships) with another staff member, affiliate, student or other person;
   g. decisions regarding students including assessments, scholarships, prizes, examination results and other matters relating to a student’s academic progress or record;
   h. a researcher’s affiliation with or financial involvement in any organisation or entity with a direct interest in the research or the provision of materials for research may result in a conflict of interest;
   i. acceptance of benefits (gifts, entertainment, travel, accommodation expenses etc);
   j. acceptance of hospitality;
   k. access to University documents and information obtained in the course of employment;
   l. secondary employment whether paid or unpaid of any kind (see the Secondary Employment Policy); volunteering with other companies, organisations or businesses;
   m. ownership of intellectual property;
   n. membership of an organisation that comes into serious competition or conflict with the University;
   o. requests for public comment including public speaking, comments on radio or television, opinions expressed in letters to newspapers or in books, journals or notices; or
   p. use of University facilities and equipment for personal benefit or the benefit of a third party.

6 Procurement

1. Staff engaged in procurement on behalf of the university, who make decisions regarding suppliers, customers and other persons in respect of the selection and/or ongoing dealings related to doing or seeking to do business with the University should seek to avoid conflicts of interest, actual, potential or perceived, associated with their decisions or should declare and manage them appropriately.

2. Staff engaged in procurement may not accept gifts from suppliers or those who may benefit from their decisions, with the exception of hospitality provided in the normal course of business and in line with normal business standards i.e. not excessive or extravagant.

3. Financial delegates must not approve payments to themselves, or to a spouse or near relative. In such cases, claims must be signed by a more senior financial delegate. A delegate must not approve claims for payment from a more senior staff member within the same cost centre.

7 Financial Conflicts

1. Where a business or close personal relationships with competitors or businesses operating in the same area as the University or one of its units exists, staff must declare their conflict of interest and exclude themselves from decision making which may be perceived as inappropriate.

2. Financial conflict of interest might arise where:
   a. a staff member who has a financial interest in a company holds a position within the University where they could influence, or could be perceived to influence;
   b. the awarding of contracts by the University to a company; where a staff member holds a directorship of a company which is in a position to exert significant influence over the University;
   c. where the University is providing services to an organisation in which a staff member has interests; or
   d. where a staff member is required to perform an audit on an operation in which they have a personal interest.

3. Other examples of financial conflict include holding directorships, executive positions, shareholdings or ownership of other companies, organisations or businesses;

4. Staff members must be impartial and be seen to be impartial in the performance of these duties, and must not use information obtained in the course of their work for their own personal benefit or disclose such information to a third party except where consent has been obtained or there is a legal or professional duty to disclose.

5. If a staff member has a financial interest in a company or any other business venture and is in a position to influence business arrangements between that company and the University, such interests must be declared to the Executive Dean or Director and recorded in accordance with this policy.

6. Secondary employment of any kind should be declared (see the Secondary Employment Policy);

7. Authorised staff members shall select and deal with suppliers, customers and other persons doing or seeking to do business with the University in a completely impartial manner based always on the best interests of the University. A staff member shall not conduct business on behalf of the University with a member of their family, near relatives or a business entity with which the staff member or a member of their family is associated except where such dealings have been disclosed and specific approval and written authorisation have been obtained.

8. Similarly, a staff member shall not divert business of the University away from another supplier, customer or other person to member of their family or business entity with which the staff member or a member of their family is associated except where such dealings have been disclosed and specific approval and written authorisation have been obtained from the Executive Dean or Director.

8 Close Personal Relationships

1. Close personal relationships may exist or develop between staff members, between a staff member and a student, between a staff member and an affiliate or between a staff member or affiliate and another person related to the role of the staff member of affiliate at the University (for example, a supplier or an applicant for a vacancy in the same work area).

2. The existence of such close personal relationships may give rise to actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest or other consequences such as actual or perceived corrupt or fraudulent conduct.

3. Staff members are required to disclose close personal relationships on the Conflict of Interest Declaration Form in accordance with Section 16 of this Policy. Affiliates are strongly encouraged to disclose such relationships to their supervisor or appropriate senior officer to ensure appropriate management strategies are put in place to mitigate risk to the University and the parties involved.

4. Management strategies that may be put in place include but are not limited to:
   a. one party is not the direct supervisor of the other;
   b. one party is not involved in procedures leading to the appointment or promotion of the other party or in any other procedure relating to the conditions of appointment such as the classification of that person's position and the granting of leave;
   c. one party does not have access to any personal files relating to the other party;
   d. the relationship between the parties does not affect, adversely or otherwise, the interests of third or other parties.
   e. reorganisation of duties to minimise contact, for example, ensuring one party is not tutoring, supervising, assessing, providing pastoral care, employing, promoting, performance evaluating or professionally responsible for administering activities in which the other party is involved.

5. An existing close personal relationship does not of itself present grounds for refusing employment, promotion, transfer or access to other benefits.

6. More detailed information is available in the Close Personal Relationships Guidelines.

9 Committees and Decision Making Forums

1. As a member of a University working party, committee or board, staff members and affiliates must declare the nature, character and extent of any existing actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest when their role commences.
2. Additionally, staff members and affiliates must disclose actual, potential or received conflicts of interest that arise from the ongoing business under consideration of the committee, working party or board that they are a member of.

3. If in doubt, it is best to acknowledge a possible conflict of interest.

4. When such a conflict of interest is disclosed, the Chair (subject to the views of the Committee or Forum) will determine how the conflict will be managed. This may include but is not limited to:
   a. asking the staff member or affiliate to leave while the item of business is discussed;
   b. asking the staff member or affiliate to abstain from voting and or discussion;
   c. allow the staff member or affiliate to participate in the discussion but withdraw from the meeting before the vote or abstain from voting;
   d. allow the staff member or affiliate to stay but not participate in the debate; or
   e. allow the staff member or affiliate to stay with full rights to debate and vote.

5. Where the Chair of the working group, committee or board are unsure how a perceived or actual conflict of interest should be managed, they may seek advice from the Governance Unit.

6. Where there is a conflict of interest declared about a particular issue, future papers on that issue might not be made available to the staff member or affiliate concerned.

7. All declarations of interest shall be recorded via a conflict of interest declaration form or should be minuted, along with any ensuing action and filed consistent with the requirements of clause 16.8.

10 Research

1. A researcher’s affiliation with or financial involvement in any organisation or entity with a direct interest in the research or the provision of materials for research may result in a conflict of interest.

2. A researcher, whether student or staff, must make a full disclosure of any potential conflict of interest in research. Potential conflicts of interest include, but are not limited to any affiliation with, or financial involvement in, any organisation or entity:
   a. with a direct interest in the subject matter or materials of the researcher;
   b. providing direct financial support, such as sponsorship, for a project involving the researcher; or
   c. providing indirect benefits such as the provision of materials or facilities for a project involving the researcher or the support of the researcher such as by provision of travel or accommodation expenses to attend conferences.

3. Such disclosure must cover any situation in which the potential conflict of interest may, or may be perceived to affect any decision regarding other people.

4. University researchers are required to disclose any potential conflict of interest in research to editors of journals, to the readers of published work, and to external bodies from which funds are sought.
5. University researchers are required to disclose at the time of reporting or proposing research (for example in a grant application), any potential conflict of interest that has the potential to influence research and investigations, publication and media reports, grant applications.

6. Disclosure of a potential conflict of interest must be made at the time of application for University funds for a project. The Deputy Vice Chancellor (Research and Innovation) shall, upon advice, make a determination regarding the conflict of interest.

7. The Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Research and Innovation) must be informed of any disclosure of a potential conflict of interest in research as soon as reasonably practicable. University researchers must comply with any direction made by the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Research and Innovation) in relation to a potential conflict of interest in research.

8. In addition, University researchers must comply with the Consultancy Expenses Guidelines. A researcher’s affiliation with or financial involvement in any organisation or entity with a direct interest in the research or the provision of materials for research may result in a conflict of interest.

11 Gifts

1. This section relates to gifts provided by the University to staff members or external parties and gifts received by staff members. For gifts given to the University of Wollongong, see the Philanthropic Fundraising, Gift Acceptance and Recognition Policy.

2. No staff member should accept a gift or benefit if it could be construed by others to be intended as an inducement or reward which might place the staff member under an obligation, or cause them to act in an improper manner. It is not acceptable for a staff member to give or receive a gift or favour that may:
   a. Compromise his or her judgement;
   b. Create a conflict of interest or a perception of a conflict of interest;
   c. Damage relationships with others; or
   d. Indicate any favouritism or prejudice towards a person or group of people.

3. No staff member involved in the procurement of goods or services for the University may accept a gift, beyond normal hospitality, from any outside source, that does or is soliciting business from the University, regardless of value.

4. Staff may accept hospitality including food, beverages, accommodation or hospitality provided in the normal course of business or while attending formal functions. This may include business lunches, business dinners or accommodation which is strictly related to business meetings or events. Hospitality is expected to be consistent with industry practice, that is, business dinners should not be extravagant or hospitality excessive compared to that provided in normal business. Hospitality beyond normal business practice such as invitations to attend sporting events or other venues associated with entertainment rather than hospitality will normally be considered as a gift.

5. Under no circumstances should a gift be solicited or a gift of money, lottery ticket or a loan be accepted; staff members should also not receive gifts for members of their family.

6. Staff may accept trophies, certificates or promotional items of minor value.
7. Staff members shall not accept benefits or other favours of a character which go beyond common courtesies consistent with ethical and accepted business practices for themselves or anyone else from any organisation, person or entity which does, or seeks to do, business with the University.

8. Generally, it is acceptable for staff to give or receive token gifts, of a personal nature, with an accumulated annual value of $299 or less, providing they do not have cultural or historical significance to the University.

9. Where the value of the gift is unclear or where not accepting the gift is likely to cause offence, staff should seek advice from their Head of Unit.

10. Further guidance on what constitutes a gift with cultural or historical significance guidance may be sought from the Chief Administrative Officer.

11. In rare circumstances, where receipt of a gift which is valued in excess of $299 or a gift with cultural or historical significance, has been approved by the delegated authority, the gift will be the property of the University. For official gifts made to the University, refer to the Philanthropic Fundraising, Gift Acceptance and Fundraising Policy.

12. At the discretion of the delegated authority, a gift may be allocated to a staff member. Where gifts incur Fringe Benefits Tax, the recipient will pay any relevant Tax.

13. All gifts, accepted or not, must be disclosed immediately by the intended receiver to their Head of Unit.

14. All gifts offered to an individual from an external party, accepted or not, singular or cumulative (from the same party), including hospitality received outside normal business practice, with an annual estimated value of more than $299, are to be disclosed by the intended recipient, within 14 days of the gift being offered, by completing and submitting a Reportable Gift Form to the Human Resources Director.

15. In the case of gifts given, it is the responsibility of the authorising party to disclose reportable gifts using the Reportable Gift Form, to the Human Resources Director.

16. A Register of Reportable Gifts made by or received by staff members or affiliates will be established and maintained by the Human Resources Division.

17. The Reportable Gift Form will specify and the register will contain:
   a. particulars and estimated value of the gift;
   b. date and approving authority;
   c. identity of the person or body receiving the gift;
   d. relevant file references;
   e. in the case of reportable gifts given, the date and approving authority for the expenditure; and
   f. in the case of reportable gifts received the present location of the gift or the application of the proceeds.

18. All employees must complete an annual conflict of interest form to confirm that they have reported any gifts with an individual or cumulative value (from the same party) in excess of $299 per annum.
12 Access to Information

1. Where staff members have access to official University documents and information obtained in the course of their employment, they need to be aware of and maintain confidentiality and privacy of that information in order to protect the individuals concerned and to ensure the efficient operation of the University.

2. In general staff members should only disclose University information when required to do so by law, when the need arises as part of their normal duties and when called upon to give evidence in court or where the information has been officially approved for release. This restriction does not apply to University information which has been published and is in the public domain.

13 Public Comment

1. In some circumstances, public comment by a member of the University could raise questions of conflict of interest. In such a case, members of the University are referred to the Use of the University Name in Public Statements Policy.

14 Use of University facilities and equipment

1. Staff members are expected to use the facilities of the University efficiently, carefully and honestly. Such resources should not be used for personal benefit or the benefit of a third party. Personal use should be minimal. Guidelines for the use of facilities and equipment in relation to consultancies are contained in the Commercial Research Policy.

15 Situations which are not a Conflict of Interest

1. There are a number of circumstances that do not constitute a conflict of interest under this policy:

   2. membership of other organisations where there is no possible benefit or perception of benefit;
   3. union representation or membership; or
   4. University-approved collaboration with other organisations.

16 General Procedures for Dealing with Conflicts of Interest

1. The University will communicate the contents of this policy to all staff, affiliates and students and other clients of the University. This will be achieved by:

   a. publication of the policy and procedures on the University website;
   b. inclusion in University Staff Induction Program;
   c. inclusion in relevant staff training programs;
   d. circulation to all Head of Schools/Areas for distribution to all staff and affiliates; and
   e. circulation to relevant Unions and the relevant student associations.

2. A Conflict of Interest Declaration Form is available for use by staff and affiliates to disclose information about actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest including secondary employment, financial, business and family interests, gifts, close personal relationships and other conflicts. Staff will be annually asked to update and return the form. While this provides a general notification of interests, staff members are still required to assess whether a conflict of interest or the potential for a perceived conflict of interest exists in each individual circumstance.

3. Where a conflict of interest or the potential for a perceived conflict of interest is arises, the staff member must follow the relevant detailed procedures outlined below. Actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest must be disclosed by the staff member to the staff member's Executive Dean or Director and to the Chair of any relevant committee. The report must be made immediately and in the case of any delay a valid explanation must be provided.

4. Staff members who are uncertain whether or not they are placed in a situation where a potential or actual conflict of interest exists should seek advice from:
   a. the Director, Human Resources in relation to staffing or Director, Financial Operations for finance matters;
   b. the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Research and Innovation) in relation to research matters;
   c. the Director, Student Services Division in relation to student matters;
   d. a Deputy Vice-Chancellor or the Chief Administrative Officer in respect of all other matters.

5. The person to whom the disclosure is made, on consideration of all relevant information, may determine that:
   a. the potential for a conflict of interest of the staff member is remote and requires no further action other than to record that the matter has been reviewed; or
   b. the staff member's situation presents a conflict of interest and that conflict must be resolved.

6. If the staff member and Executive Dean/Director disagree, either about the presence of a conflict or about its appropriate resolution, the matter must be referred to the:
   a. Chief Administrative Officer for Professional Services Staff; or
   b. A Deputy Vice-Chancellor for Academic Staff.

7. Once an assessment has been made, the Executive Dean or Director must immediately notify the staff member of their decision.

8. The report of the conflict of interest, the supervisor’s assessment and the resolution must be in writing and placed on the staff member’s personnel file. The report must be provided to the staff member and include any comment that the staff member wishes to be recorded.

9. Actions determined to resolve or eliminate any conflict of interest are to be implemented immediately. These may include:
   a. require the staff member to take action to eliminate the conflict; or alternatively
   b. disqualify the staff member from the process to which the conflict relates; or
   c. reorganise the duties of the staff member so as to remove the conflict of interest; or
d. put in place additional processes to ensure the impartiality of the staff member in the performance of their duties and notify the staff member of these processes by confidential minute.

10. Staff members who are authorised to continue to perform their normal duties must immediately report any change in circumstances, which could affect the relevance of that authorisation, to their Executive Dean or Director. Once notified, the Executive Dean or Director should review the situation according to the procedures set out above.

11. All information regarding conflicts of interest or perceived conflicts of interest is confidential and disclosed only to staff with delegated authority for dealing with and recording such matters. It is legitimate for those involved in resolving a matter to seek advice and/or assistance from people with relevant expertise as nominated in this policy.

12. The University shall take all necessary steps to ensure the confidentiality of information relating to conflicts of interest or perceived conflicts of interest.

13. Any person with a complaint about a staff member acting in breach of this policy may raise the matter with the Chief Administrative Officer or, alternatively, where appropriate, report the matter under a relevant University procedure for the making of a complaint or protected disclosure.

14. Where a complaint is made by any person that a staff member has breached this policy, the complaint shall, at the discretion of the Vice-Chancellor, be investigated.

17 Compliance with this Policy

1. All staff and affiliates are required to comply with this policy.

2. A staff member may be directed to provide information regarding potential or actual conflicts of interest and failure to do so may be regarded as a breach of this policy.

3. Any alleged breaches of this Policy will be dealt with in accordance with the applicable University policy document, enterprise agreement, industrial instrument or contract in accordance with the principles of natural justice.

4. Where a breach of this policy has been found to have occurred:
   a. Staff may have their employment with the University terminated.
   b. Affiliates may have action taken against them which may include termination or non-renewal of their contract or appointment with the University.

5. The University treats all complaints seriously and makes every effort to expeditiously investigate complaints in accordance with the University’s policy documents. Where there is no relevant process for dealing with an alleged breach of this Policy, the University will take steps to ensure the matter is properly considered and, if proven, that appropriate action is taken.

18 Roles & Responsibilities

1. It is the responsibility of staff members to identify and report any conflicts of interest they may become aware of and to take action to address situations in which a conflict of interest could arise, or perceptively arise, as soon as the conflict of interest is identified, by implementing the procedures in this policy.
2. The University is responsible for communicating the requirements of this policy to staff on a regular basis.
