ONE OF THE BEST IN NSW & ACT

The federal government's Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching (QILT) ranked UOW in 2017 as second among all universities in New South Wales and the ACT for Computing and Information Systems.

“

In today's society everything is technology-based so this is a valuable degree. UOW has a great reputation for Information Technology and the support they give to students. I wanted to study somewhere that I could join clubs, go overseas for volunteer work or do things that I could look back and tell people I've not only gained knowledge but life experience too.

My passion is to work towards setting new trends in technology, that's driven by being unique and different. I want a lifestyle where I'm always challenging my mind for new creative ideas.

Western Sydney Nursing School

COMING IN 2020*

As part of the University of Wollongong's vision for the South Western Sydney Campus, the University will open a School of Nursing to encourage the next generation of nurses to study, train, work, and undertake research in the Liverpool area.

The need for nurses Australia-wide is growing, especially in expanding regions like Sydney's south west. A growing and ageing population, and an increasing incidence of chronic diseases have made qualified nurses more important than ever to our future. The Western Sydney Nursing Education and Research Centre (WeSNER) will help secure that future.

The proximity of WeSNER to Liverpool Hospital, one of the largest in the Southern Hemisphere, will provide some opportunities to contribute to the Health and Education precinct within Liverpool. About 30 per cent of current employment in Liverpool's city centre is within its broader Health and Education precinct, which has been identified by Liverpool City Council and NSW Government as a key strategic asset and opportunity.

The local health districts including South West Sydney Local Health District and other healthcare providers present great opportunities for placements for nursing students to enhance their clinical learning.

The University of Wollongong has earned a proud reputation for nursing education with the School of Nursing at the University's Wollongong campus successfully contributing to the excellence and efficiency of nursing education since 1991. The major new nursing training facility WeSNER, to be open for the start of the 2020 academic year, will be of similar scale to the existing School of Nursing at Wollongong and is planned to accommodate around 700 nursing students. In addition, WeSNER will provide a platform for the UOW School of Nursing to expand on its established research strengths and develop further collaborative relationships at all levels for the benefit of the region.

The state-of-the-art nursing learning, teaching and research centre will focus on person-centred models of care and will showcase the latest in technology, such as virtual environments to provide authentic learning experiences for students. A WeSNER Health Clinic is also planned to provide a broad range of person-centred health services to address the health needs of the Liverpool region. The proposed WeSNER Health Clinic will provide professionally supervised health services to the general public while educating students in health care practices.

When I left school, I didn't think that I was ready for university. I thought I'd start work and return to study later but my plan kept getting pushed back. I jumped at the chance to get into university through UOW College's University Access Program (UAP) at the new UOW South Western Sydney Campus.

The UAP course was a great way to refresh my study skills and it has made going to university after a break from school feel a little bit easier.

As a mature age student, it was a significant challenge to leave the workforce with the goal of improving my knowledge and skills in an effort to re-enter the workforce later. It is possible to realise your dreams of progressing within your chosen career. UOW SWS was not the only offer I received, but it was my first choice and accepting the offer was my first step to securing a great future career.

Reputation was a huge factor in my decision-making process and UOW has such an impressive reputation and quality of education ranking. The fact the new UOW South Western Sydney Campus was opening in my community and so close to where I live presented an opportunity to maximise my learning and development, while being part of an outstanding new venture.

COMMONWEALTH SUPPORTED PLACES

All UOW undergraduate places for Australian citizens and holders of an Australian permanent visa (including humanitarian) are Commonwealth Supported Places (CSP), meaning the Australian Government contributes up to three quarters of your tuition fees. The rest, called the student contribution, is up to you. Student contribution amounts vary from year to year. Amounts for one year of full-time study in 2017 are listed below:

– Behavioural Sciences, Social Sciences	$6,349
– Education	$6,349
– Foreign Languages, Visual & Performing Arts	$6,349
– Humanities	$6,349
– Nursing	$6,349
– Mathematics, Statistics	$9,050
– Science	$9,050
– Computing, Engineering, Health	$9,050
– Law, Accounting, Administration, Economics, Commerce	$10,596
– Medicine	$10,596

These contribution amounts are based on a full-time 48 credit points (cp) year. If you are studying part-time you will pay a proportional amount based on the number of credit points you are enrolled in (e.g.  $\frac{3}{4}$  of the full-time amount if you are enrolled in 36cp). Credit points are how we measure student workload for each subject and are a guide to the number of hours per week spent in classes and private study. Most subjects are single session (half-yearly) and are worth 6cp.

Other university costs to consider include textbooks, transport, parking, childcare, accommodation and living costs.
