Uni-Capitol Washington Internship Program 2009

Information for University of Wollongong students

The University of Wollongong is one of eight Australian universities participating in the Uni-Capitol Washington Internship program (UCWIP) coordinated by Eric Federing, a Washington DC based Resident Director. The program offers an opportunity for suitably qualified UOW students to participate in an unpaid internship program on Capitol Hill in Washington DC for 8 weeks commencing in early January 2009. There are only twelve places available so UOW students will compete with other Australian students for these places.

- Students will be placed in US Congressional offices. This provides a unique opportunity to understand how the US political system operates as well as being directly exposed to the workings of Congress. Students will also have the opportunity to consider how Australia is perceived from afar and also to learn more about a country whose policies, laws and culture impact Australia so significantly.

- The internship will count towards the University of Wollongong degree as participating students must enrol in POL 301 in Summer Session.
