Meeting of minds at UOW study workshop

ILLAWARRA businesses are being encouraged to join national and international companies at the University of Wollongong for a Mathematics and Statistics in Industry Study Group conference. MISG2008 will run from January 28 to February 1.

School of Mathematics and Applied Statistics (SMAS) director Tim Marchant said participants would include NZ Steel, Geosciences Australia, Integral Energy and the CRC for Biomedical Imaging.

SMAS associate director Dr Maureen Edwards described the conference as an industry clinic where problems are solved by up to 150 delegates - mostly experts in mathematical, statistical, operations research and computational methods.

The many minds make bright work formula has brought considerable success in solving industry problems in many parts of the world.
